Week 2: The Bible: Authority

In matters of the life of a Christian, Martin Luther held the Bible as authoritative. It was authoritative for two reasons. First, it contained God's speaking. Second, what God says, he does. When God speaks things start to happen. Often, the word "authority" conjures up images of being told what to do and how to do it. While this is true, it's not the whole story of what caused Luther to view the Bible as the sole authority in the Christian's life.
